

SOFTRROOTS

PRODUCT/SERVICE INFORMATION

BUILDING SOFTWARE FOUNDATIONS

www.softroots.com

Today, software systems can make all the difference in whether business operations are streamlined or not. Often, the results of having a flexible, yet integrated system environment, can provide a strong competitive edge within the marketplace.

Streamlined software systems and integrated information frameworks do not happen by chance. Analysis and design are needed to build systems that work as designed, and support the system requirements that drive the business. System integration, on the other hand, provides automation and control to streamline business operations.

The SoftRoots' technical team has been building software systems for both, small and large enterprise environments for more than 25 years. Our expertise in building secure solutions for eMarkets, data exchange, and custom business applications is often leveraged by our clients to meet their most challenging software development needs.

SOFTRROOTS

21644 North 9th Avenue
Suites 202/203
Phoenix, Arizona 85027-2824

Phone: 623-516-7900
Fax: 623-516-2022
Email: info@softroots.com

PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

Product Solutions

"Quality software begins with requirements and design. Although, through use of coding standards, process controls, guidelines, as well as development expertise, design concepts are transformed to become robust, agile software solutions." – mjb

SoftRoots believes in building software solutions that are built upon, not thrown away. As such, our solutions must meet rigorous design reviews, coding inspections, and test criteria, to further their utility and usefulness during their life cycle. The software industry is maturing, and practical solutions that are robust and reusable, are the ones becoming the foundation building blocks.

With many advancements in technology, from XML to secure data exchange, software plays an increasingly vital role in successfully utilizing technology for day-to-day business operations. Our software solutions have included the following technologies and support;

- .NET Enterprise Development
- XML-based Web Services
- Oracle-Integrated Solutions
- X.509 Security Solutions
- Web-based Monitoring Systems

Today, more than ever before, is a vitally crucial that an experienced team is behind critical software development initiatives. The SoftRoots team can provide you that edge, so that success is not something that is simply hoped for. Rather, it is an expected outcome from the development process, enabling our clients to strategically plan ahead.

Technical Support

Keeping pace with technology advancements, evolving standards, Internet security controls, as well as available off-the-shelf solutions can be an expensive and time-consuming effort.

The technical support services available from SoftRoots' provides you with the know-how and expertise to successfully implement and/or support your Information Technology needs, including;

- Networking Design & Administration
- Database Design & Development
- Software Engineering & Programming
- System Integration and Control
- Web-based Application Development
- Consulting and Customer Support

Our team is experienced with providing technical services to both, government and commercial organizations, and is well equipped to successfully support small or large production environments.

Contract Vehicles

SoftRoots is continuing to expand on the different ways of doing business with our clients. A growing number of contract vehicles are available to better support our clients, including;

- GSA Schedules
- Basic Contracts & Agreements
- Service Level Agreements
- Teaming Agreements/Subcontracts
- Credit Card Purchases
- HUBZone set-asides

Our wide-range of services can readily be made available to support your most challenging needs.

Professional Services

Professional services can make the difference in getting the job done right the first time. SoftRoots offers the following range of professional services to meet your demanding needs;

- Documentation Specialists
- In-house Training & Support
- Executive & Secretarial Services
- Clerical and Data Entry Services

Today, many business operations are in a state of flux. Having professional resources readily available can help you meet your immediate needs, without additional employee commitments. A flexible workforce can enable you to adjust to the changing business climate.

Our Commitment

Our commitment is first and foremost, to satisfy our client's needs. Our gage of success is based on our client's satisfaction, not on our own understanding. Our expertise stems from the many challenges we have successfully undertaken for our clients, who have been instrumental in our growth. We would like to demonstrate how we can provide value for your organization too.

Please visit us online, or call us at: (623) 516-7900 to obtain more information regarding our solutions and/or technical support services:

www.softroots.com
www.powerroots.com